Memorial Day--Genesee Street Bridge
Memorial Day in Watsega was unusually quiet. The G. A. R. and W. R. C. attended the ceremonies at Kenosha, upon invitation. However, one duty was not altogether neglected as the forenoon was spent in formal services in the court house square in front of the soldiers monument.

A large detail of the post was sent to the cemetery to locate and decorate the graves of the soldiers dead with flags and flowers. At 12:25 o'clock the post boarded the train. Seven coaches were quickly filled, and yet ticket selling at the office window seemed unhampered. Never before was there such a crowd at that window. It is estimated that 700 Waukeganites went to Kenosha by lake and rail. Arriving at our neighbor's station the "boys" were met by the officers of the day and formed in line, but owing to delay of posts from Milwaukee and Racine we were somewhat tired of the wait before we finally got under motion. With this exception everything went off in fine order. It was plainly apparent from the crowded streets along the line of march, from the depot to monument square, that it was a pain day for Kenosha, but we were more astonished at the great crowds in the streets, in the windows and on the house tops, and the square itself literally packed with waiting and expectant thousands as we approached the end of the march.

The city was beautifully decorated, the management excellent and all immediately concerned handled the immense crowd with success and comfort. The whole affair reflects great credit upon the city, and especially upon the generous donor of the monument and library building.

After months of debate over the condemnation of the Genesee street bridge for railway traffic, the city authorities, at a special meeting, voted permission to open traffic to the railroad across it. This structure has been condemned as unsafe for this purpose by several expert engineers in every instance. Mr. Zeising, the latest engineer, reports, shorn of the verbiage, that the structure is fundamentally weak for this kind of traffic and beyond repair from this cause. He further states in his report that the annex or new bridge, attached to the old one, is made of second hand material. This new attachment cost the city some $6,000. In view then of these several unflattering opinions of expert engineers as to its structural weakness and incapacity, and in memory of the Dixon tragedy when a bridge went down with a crowd of citizens on it, and also of the Ashburn horror, when from the same cause a railroad train filled with passengers fell to the depths below, at a great loss of precious lives and mangled bodies. The only argument offered, aside from the officials of the railroad company, is that it "hurts business." No doubt there is some political jealousy mixed with the argument, but nowhere does it appear that there is sufficient reason to jeopardize life and limb by "violating sound judgment" in favor of avarice and greed. Why take such a risk because it "hurts business?" Opening this defective bridge to railroad traffic against the experience and judgment of men who make this a business, in case of an accident, the loss, damage and blame rests on the people of the city of Waukegan and not on the railroad company under its franchise. Herefore the general public, the tax payers, have been consulted in this matter, but somehow some busybody has been hobnobbing with the railroad officials or merchants or both, and the result, to assume a very grave responsibility that from the best information to be obtained is liable to invite a serious, if not a frightful disaster in the near future.

Scrap Iron Again Valuable.

In old times any sort of scrap iron was of value; a broken-down stove, or an old iron pot, or anything whatever of iron could be sold to the junk dealer. A boy who came into possession of anything of that sort knew that he had something that could be disposed of for money. Then, with cheaper iron, came a time when all such things had no market value whatever. Rusty stove pipe, old iron hoops, old grate-bars and galvanized pipe were thrown on the rubbish heap. But with the present prices of iron all these things have a value. "Anything with iron in it is worth something, nowadays," a wholesale dealer said.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kold-Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so the body can be nourished while the worn out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good. Wm. T. Hill.

CAPITAL NEWS LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, June 4, 1900.

All aboard for adjournment. Congress has completed its work except the tag ends and senate on the several items in two appropriation bills, which are now in course of settlement, and adjournment this week is a certainty, although the senate has not yet adopted the house resolution, which provides for adjournment Wednesday. While there are several measures unacted upon which many republicans would like to have been passed at this session, taken as a whole, the work of the session has been satisfactory to the republicans, and the record made is one upon which they will be proud to stand during the coming campaign.

The senate by unanimous consent agreed that the Nicaragua canal bill should be taken up December 10, and remain the unfinished business until disposed of. That shows how far out of the way those who have been saying that the republican leaders in the senate did not intend to allow that bill to pass. The bill would have been passed before adjournment, if it could have been done without an extended debate which would have dragged the session into midsummer. It was discovered some time ago that there was an agreement among democratic senators opposed to the Nicaragua canal, who are more numerous than is generally known, to prolong the session indefinitely, if an attempt was made to bring the bill to a vote. That and other good reasons made the republicans willing to allow the bill to go over.

If the democratic party had any regard for consistency, it would, after the democratic members of the house defeated the joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment giving congress power to regulate trusts, forever keep mum on the subject of trusts. The republicans did not have votes enough to adopt the resolution, two-thirds being required for that class of legislation, and only five democrats had the nerve to defy their party caucus and vote with the republicans for the resolution, which left the vote 88 short of the required two-thirds. Representative Littlefield, of Maine, made another great speech on this question, in which he scored the democratic party for the record of its leaders, including Mr. Bryan, on trusts and trust legislation, closing with these words: "We are ready to go to the people in November and to submit to their candid common sense judgment whether the democratic party that has proved itself incompetent to deal with this question, shall be trusted, or the republican party. If the people of this country shall register their verdict in accordance with the proposition that 'you can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time,' then, when the sun rises upon the morning that sees William McKinley's re-nomination in Philadelphia, it will be as the sun of Austria, illumined by the honor of the republican party." Every time a democratic demagogue howls against trusts, he should be confronted with the vote on this resolution, the most practical anti-trust legislation that has been before congress, and ask why the democrats defeated it.

In the equity branch of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, Justice Burnard imposed a fine of $100 and costs upon Mr. E. G. Sizgers, for contempt, in failing to obey an order of court forbidding him to advertise himself as successor to or in any way connected with C. A. Snow & Co., patent lawyers, of Washington, D. C.

Senator Hanna surprised both his enemies and his friends when he jumped into a running debate on the naval appropriation bill and tackled Senators Wellington, Tillman, Allen, Pettigrew and Teller, and got the best of each of them, and proved that he could take care of himself in that most dangerous of all senatorial fights, a running debate.

The senate added an amendment to the military academy appropriation bill that will make Gen. Miles a Lieut. General and Corbin a Major General, if agreed to by the house and it probably will be.

In leaving the settlement of the senatorial dispute to the voters in Montana, who will this year elect the legislature, which will next January meet to fill the seat now claimed by Mr. Clark and Mr. Magrains, which is the practical effect of the postponement of consideration of the credentials of the claimants of the senate committee on elections, the senators took the easiest way out of a mess.

JOANNE

His First Love.

By PAUL INGELOW.

CHAPTER II.—(Continued.)

The rest of the family joined them presently and they walked and talked till the supper bell called them into the house to a homely, old-fashioned meal. They ate their supper, and then the clock struck ten, and, afraid of staying any longer, lest he should lose the last of the household's probable primitive hour of retirement, Godfrey rose at the sound of it and took his leave.

"I have had a most pleasant evening," he said to Mrs. Beresford. "I should have spent a very different one if I had been alone at my inn."

He shook Mrs. Beresford's hand warmly. There was a breadth and heartiness about the man that had taken his fancy. He was not an ideal parish priest perhaps, but he was full of human sympathy and vigor, and Godfrey, as he walked home to his inn, found himself looking forward to the next day's companionship with a very unequivocal sense of pleasure.

The day broke clear and fair, and Godfrey walked down to the river rather before his appointed time, and had taken his position and baited his line before Mr. Beresford joined him. They spent some hours together, and at the end of them Godfrey thought and said that he had had a pleasant morning. The scene had a peaceful beauty about it that he found delightful, and his companion's frank and genial talk had entertained him admirably.

The vicar now put up his things preparatory to departure. It was half-past twelve o'clock, and at half-past twelve, he told Godfrey, he must betake himself home. "My clerical fetters are not very heavy on me, but yet it behooves me not to forget altogether that I have to wear them," he said with a laugh.

Before, however, they parted company, Godfrey, turning his head, said quickly, "There is Wasp!" and the next moment that irrepressible terrier came bounding across the meadow, aiming, as for dear life, at the vicar's legs.

"If Wasp is here his mistress can't be far off," said Mr. Beresford; and in fact in another moment or two they saw Joanne's figure in the distance, approaching them rapidly with brisk, elastic steps.

"I hoped I should find you still here," she said. She merely bowed to Godfrey, with a brief "Good morning." "I am so sorry to hurry you away, but I thought I had better come, for poor Mrs. Oakes has sent a message for you. She is suddenly worse, her daughter says. I am afraid they think she is dying."

"Oh, poor soul! Then I'll be off to her at once," cried the vicar. "I'll just go straight there. Can you carry my things home, Joanne?"

"I will carry them," cried Godfrey, interposing.

"There is no need," said Joanne. "No, there is no need. I'll have the vicar, but I'll leave you to settle the matter between you. I'm sorry I must go. We have had a very pleasant morning, Mr. Helstone."

"We have, indeed," replied Godfrey, heartily.

And then when they had shaken hands, and Mr. Beresford had turned his back Godfrey gathered up their gear and shouldered his load.

"They walked across the meadow with the sunshine in their eyes, and with the birds stretching out on either side. Godfrey very consciously at this moment to be treading the grass at Joanne Beresford's side; the girl was a kind of girl he liked to talk to, honest and quick-witted and frank; and as for looks—hers was one of those faces that charm without regular beauty; whose brightness and mobility give them all the fascination that they need. They walked and talked for ten minutes, and then the house was close at hand.

"You will come in—will you not?" Joanne said.

"No, I won't come in just now," said Godfrey, but Mr. Beresford has been good enough to bring up my friend Dallas some evening."

"Oh, yes, we shall be glad to see Mr. Dallas," replied Joanne.

It had been a pleasant quarter of an hour, thought Godfrey as he went his way homeward. He had a sense that the whole morning had been well spent.

"I like these Beresfords; and I like the father and his daughter especially," he told himself. "I wonder what Dallas will think of them?" And then he began to plan how he would take Mr. Dallas upon the following evening, if his friend had no other scheme of his own.

CHAPTER III.

"I am afraid it will be rather a bore, you know," said Jack Dallas.

"Oh, I don't think you will find it a bore," replied Godfrey. "One can't live in a place and know nobody."

Jack Dallas was an active, well-made man, though neither so tall nor so good-looking as Godfrey; with a pleasant voice and an easy, frank, genial manner that made him rather a favorite generally. He had on the whole more popular qualities than his friend, and possessed a power of making himself at home with his company that had often served him in good stead. He treated the world pleasantly, as a man does who feels he has his welcome place in it, and his world, making his confidence, for the most part treated him pleasantly in return.

He changed his coat and in ten minutes the two young men had started on their walk. They had been fishing all the morning, with a good deal of mutual content.

"You will admire Miss Lillian," Godfrey said, as they walked together up the road.

"I dare say I shall," replied Mr. Dallas, placidly.

"She rather reminds me," said Godfrey, "of that pretty cousin of the Persingtons. You know the girl?"

"Know her! Why, I'm head-over ears in love with her!" exclaimed Mr. Dallas.

"If she is like Agnes Ferguson she may well be a beauty," said Godfrey.

"Well, she is a beauty," said Godfrey. "She is an uncommonly pretty girl. I don't know that she has much brains."

"Oh, brains be damned!" exclaimed Mr. Dallas. "The best she has of them is her better. I'm sick of clever-girls."

"So am I—of some of them," replied Godfrey, more cautiously.

"Here we are," he said in five minutes more, and he opened the garden gate, and they walked up the little avenue. As they approached the house they saw through the trees the movement of women's dresses, and heard the mingled sound of many voices.

"They are at home at any rate," said Mr. Dallas, dryly. "It is a delightful thing to have one's family so constituted that the very air is filled with it, and you are conscious of its presence from afar. I don't know that such an experience ever suggested itself to me before. If the eleven were one's own property, now, one might imagine the thrill of fine emotion."

"Shut up!" exclaimed Godfrey, quickly. "There is the vicar."

And as he spoke they came suddenly in sight of Mr. Beresford approaching them from the lawn, accompanied by two small maidens, the little damsel Maude and Violet.

"I am glad you have found your way back again, Mr. Helstone. We were just talking of you," he said. "And you have brought your friend along with you, which makes you doubly welcome. Good evening to you both. How goes the fishing, sir? I'd like to have taken a look at you this morning, but it would have been against my conscience. I never fish on Fridays. Not for the reason you are thinking, sir, and the vicar turned his quick eye suddenly on Mr. Dallas, 'but because of my sermon. I make a rule to write my sermon on Friday evenings.'"

"And a very excellent rule it is, I have no doubt," replied Mr. Dallas, "except for its result in keeping you from your other occupation that seems rather peculiarly suited to the day—I mean, from a religious point of view."

"Ah, you're a wag, sir, are you?" said the vicar. And then he looked the young man over with a smile about the corners of his handsome mouth. "You see a connection between fishing and fasting, do you? Unfortunately, though, I don't fast."

"They went forward to the lawn, and then there were other greetings to be made. Mrs. Beresford, seated on a garden bench, and knitting stockings, gave her hand to the young men and briefly made them welcome; pretty Lillian, in a white gown, also offered her hand to Godfrey, and smiled upon his friend, and Edith came up with a frank smile and an immediate address.

"Now, you will play croquet to-night, won't you?" she said to Mr. Helstone. "I want you to help me beat Lillian, you know. Will you be on my side?—and Lillian and Mr. Dallas can go together."

Godfrey submitted to his fate, and they were soon busy with their game. To tell the truth, he would rather have played it with Joanne than Edith, but Joanne, as it happened, was as yet not to be seen.

Mr. Dallas was evidently getting on admirably with Miss Beresford. Her face was wreathed in smiles; her eyes, as they talked together, were alternately dropped and lifted to his face; he was flirting with her in the easiest and pleasantest way, and, after his usual fashion, enjoying himself—Godfrey rather enviously thought. For somehow, though Edith was bright and conversable enough, Godfrey considered that his own position, with no one but her for his companion, might very unduly be improved.

When the game was over he looked about him. The vicar had gone indoors; Mrs. Beresford was still knitting steadily; on one corner of the lawn three of the boys were playing leap-frog. Godfrey turned away, and began to stroll along one of the walks; and then suddenly his eye fell on some one coming up the avenue, and, with a feeling of unquestionable pleasure, he perceived that it was Joanne.

He greeted her almost with warmth. "I couldn't think where you were," he exclaimed.

"Why, was it so unlikely that I should be out?" she answered with a look of amusement. "Oh, I am often out. I have been down just now with my cousins."

"With your cousins?" echoed Godfrey. "Have you cousins here—in the village?"

"Oh, yes, six of them," replied Joanne, laughing.

"And are they Beresfords, too?"

"Yes, they are all Beresfords. They are the children of papa's brother," said Joanne. "He died a few years ago, and then Mrs. Beresford came here that she might be near us."

"That was natural, certainly," said Godfrey. "But it rather amuses me to find so many of you altogether. I suppose now you are sometimes—the whole seventeen of you—here on the lawn together?"

"Well, sometimes," replied Joanne. "But it doesn't happen very often. Two of my cousins are not living here. They only come down in holiday time. They live in London."

"What are they at school?" asked Godfrey.

"No, no," said Joanne. "They are grown up. One is twenty-six; he is an architect, and the other is going to be a doctor. The other four are girls," said Joanne. "They are very nice. I should like you to see them."

"I have no doubt I should like to, too," replied Mr. Helstone.

"One of them is very pretty," said Joanne. "Some people say, almost as pretty as Lillian. But I hardly think that, for my own part."

"You admire your sister very much, then?" inquired Godfrey, with rather an impulse of curiosity.

"I do not," said Joanne. "I like her, but I don't think I should like to see her. I have no doubt I should like to, too," replied Mr. Helstone.

"One of them is very pretty," said Joanne. "Some people say, almost as pretty as Lillian. But I hardly think that, for my own part."

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Catholic Home Burns at Peoria—Countess Sweetheart Worth More than $20,000—Suicide Near Centerville—List of State Taxes—A Hardy Hog.

The Home of the Good Shepherd, a Catholic institution for the care of dependent and wayward children, located at the western limits of Peoria, was destroyed by an early evening fire. The sisters in charge of the institution were seated in the community room. Some of the inmates, who number eighty, were in the yard, while others were in different portions of the building. Suddenly the sisters were startled by cries from the rear of the second floor of the main building, and rushing up, found the passageway a mass of flames. The rescue of the children was accomplished without accident, though there were some minor escapes from suffocation. The loss is $40,000, insurance $12,000. The fire is a mysterious one. A week before there was a fire on the same floor, occurring in the same peculiar manner.

Give Up a Request to Wed.

Guatav Jorns, 20 years old, of Springfield, has discontinued himself by marrying Bertha Gurnus, his schoolgirl sweetheart. Young Jorns and the girl became engaged more than a year ago, before the death of the boy's father, and the elder Jorns vigorously opposed the match. It was supposed at the time that he objected because of the youth of the boy, but when he died a few months ago it was found that his will was designed to prevent the marriage at any time. It gave the bulk of Jorns' $20,000 estate to the young man only on condition that he never marry Miss Gurnus. A few weeks ago young Jorns and Miss Gurnus went to Evansville, Ind., and now the information is given out that while in that city they had been married.

In the Body of a Chicago Man.

The body of a man was found near Centerville station by three farmers who were fishing for frogs in Bluff Lake. There is little doubt that it is the body of Frank Hagan, of 808 Crystal street, Chicago. The young man had evidently committed suicide. A revolver was held in the right hand and a bullet hole in the right side of the head marked where the bullet entered. From appearances death must have taken place a week before. In the pocket were found a number of small articles, including a silver card case, on the back of which was engraved the words "Frank Hagan." A memorandum written in lead pencil, without date, read: "When my body is found notify the Chicago police—Frank Hagan."

Clergyman Is Sent to Jail.

Rev. Oscar Ketsch, who for three years has been one of the leading German ministers of Nashville, was arrested recently and lodged in the county jail on a charge of larceny. Mr. Ketsch has been filling the pulpit temporarily in the German Evangelical Church at Bubbleron, and a few weeks ago was arrested at the instigation of several members of the congregation and arraigned before a justice on a charge of having removed valuable property from the church. The minister was found not guilty and released, but later was arrested on the same charge and brought before another justice, who found him guilty and in default of bond he was committed to jail.

Taxes for a Year Completed.

The state auditor of public accounts has completed the compilation of all taxes charged against the assessment of 1900 in the State of Illinois. The total amount is $40,289,137.18, divided as follows: State tax, $4,039,709.55; county tax, $4,114,307.46; city tax, $9,082,620.00; school tax, $10,221,830.48; miscellaneous, $8,824,115.80; road and bridge, $9,088,069.49; registered bonds, $1,048,007.82.

Mrs. Phoebe Drake Cleveland died at Springfield, aged 80.

Frank Horvath, a brakeman, was killed while switching at Grilles.

There is an epidemic of whooping cough among Champaign children.

J. A. Anderson of Chicago, a canvasser, was killed by cars at Champaign while riding a bicycle.

Rev. J. T. Green of Whitehall has accepted the Baptist Church pastorate at Alhambra for half of the time.

At Leroy Mrs. Lillie May Haig died after an operation for gall stone. She was a leader in religious circles.

Three new four-story buildings will be added to the Illinois Refining Company's plant at Pekin. The contracts for their erection have been let.

Charles H. Dorris, superintendent of the Lebanon public schools, has resigned to accept a position as superintendent of city schools at Collinsville.

The Rockford plant of the Chicago Sugar Refining Company closed down its grinding departments for an indefinite period. Forty men are at work on improvements about the plant, which it is estimated will cost $50,000. The managers of the Rockford plant say that it will be in operation again in a month or six weeks.

Thomas Hill, formerly of the Smith-Hill Elevator Company at Quincy, which sold out to the Otis Elevator Company of Chicago, which is now controlling the elevator business in the country, has authorized the announcement that he has organized the Hill Elevator Company, with a capital of $100,000, for the manufacture in Quincy of a new elevator for his invention. Most of the stock is held by Chicago capitalists. Mr. Hill was connected with the Otis company at Chicago until a short time ago.

A large crowd at Glenwood witnessed the dedication of the new manual training school building, marking the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Illinois Manual Training School. The building and fixtures, including an electric light and a heating plant, cost $50,000, and is the gift of a Chicago donor whose name the trustees refuse to divulge. The dedication address was given by Dr. F. W. Gunsulius. The Rev. Alexander Young opened the exercises with prayer, and President Butler spoke briefly.

James Montgomery, a young law student, swore that his fiancée, Miss Ollie Crawford of Chicago, was 18 years of age, procured a license and married her. Mrs. Crawford, the mother of the newly wedded bride, immediately had the husband arrested for perjury, stating that her daughter was but 17 years old and threatening to have the young man sent to the penitentiary. Great pressure was brought to bear upon Mrs. Crawford to withdraw her complaint and she finally consented with much reluctance. Mr. Montgomery was released.

The United States Department of Agriculture climate and crop bulletin of the weather bureau for the Illinois section says in general the conditions of crops are good. In the northern district the prospect for wheat continues good. The ravages of the Hessian fly have continued in the central and southern districts, and the condition has deteriorated. Much wheat has been headed in the central and southern districts. Corn is making good growth, but there is some complaint of cutworms. Fruits are dropping badly in many cases.

The corner stone of the new Illinois College of Photography was laid at Springfield under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity, and in the presence of 5,000 people. All public business was suspended. William B. Wright officiated as grand master and Judge S. L. Dwight of Centralia delivered the oration. Visiting Masons were present from all surrounding towns. The Illinois College of Photography was founded in 1894 by Dr. H. Bissell and is the only institution of the kind in the world. The present buildings and grounds represent an outlay of $75,000.

Judge Ames of the Clinton County Circuit Court has allowed claims amounting to $17,559.88 against the estate of the late State Treasurer J. N. Ramsay, in favor of the State of Illinois. This is an echo of the administration of the late James D. Baker as warden of the penitentiary at Joliet, also treasurer of the hospital for criminal insane. All of the funds entrusted to his care were placed in the bank of Henry Seiler in Lebanon, and when it closed Baker was a heavy loser, causing a shortage in the penitentiary cash box. The warden could not liquidate, therefore he resigned. His sureties were Ramsay and Seiler.

Memorial day exercises in Byron were marred by a highly sensational episode, which resulted in the wrecking by lightning of the beautiful and costly soldiers' monument, the first one erected in Illinois after the close of the civil war. A violent electrical storm followed a sultry morning, accompanied by a torrent of rain, forced the participants hurriedly to repair to Gill's hall, to conclude the ceremonies. At 1:30 in the afternoon, while the speaker of the day was calling the roll of the dead, the heavens were rent by a awful crash, accompanied by a vivid sheet of flame, shaking the ground like an earthquake. When the storm subsided it was found that the monument of white marble, standing in the business center of town, had been shattered by the bolt. A piece of the shaft proper, called the "waist," nearly five feet long and eighteen inches thick, was ground into fragments and hurled many rods in every direction. The lower portion of the "waist," eight feet long and two feet thick, fell beside the foundation stone, while the heavy cornice superincumbent landed in a jumbled mass of rods away. Surmounting this monolith was an American eagle rampant, of heroic proportions. The "grand old bird" landed half a block eastward, right side up on its pedestal without a scratch.

Shobolier was visited by a cloudburst. Over 100 feet of the railroad track was washed away and the Congregational Church, under process of construction, was razed.

When the packet steamer Dock Fowler landed at the wharf in Mount City the other afternoon a lot of crap shooters quarreled over a game. Lee Williams of Union City, Tenn., a professional gambler, shot John Hawkins of Paducah through the head, killing him. He then shot his way through the crowd, and through the fall may prove fatal.

Here Matter of Figures.
He enjoyed the cheap restaurant and took a seat at one of the tables. "Will you have a 25-cent dinner or a 50-cent one, sir?" inquired the waiter.
"Is there any real difference?"
"Certainly, sir."
"What is it?"
"Twenty-five cents, sir."

"Oh! How Happy I Am."
"HOW HAPPY I AM to be able to say that I am free from pain after three years of severe suffering from neuralgia," writes Mrs. Archie Young, 1817 Oak Avenue, West Superior, Wis. "I am so thankful to be able to say that your '5 Drops' is the best medicine I ever got in my life. When I received it from you last November, I used some of it right away. The first dose helped me. It is impossible to explain how I was suffering from neuralgia. I thought no one could get worse and that death would soon come. I was very weak, and I hardly thought I could live to see my husband come back from his daily labor. Now I can say that I am free from pain, my cheeks are red, my appetite is good and I sleep well all night. Many of my friends are surprised, and say they will send for some '5 Drops.' Sample bottles of this wonderful remedy 25c. Large bottles, containing 300 doses, $1.00. For information write Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., 104 E. Lake Street, Chicago."

Not So Bad as That.
"I am told, Colonel, that you had no rain in your locality for six weeks, and everybody is complaining of a water famine."
"Well, sub, it's something of an inconvenience, but we don't call it a famine, sub."—Chicago Tribune.

Sold by all grocers.

PRESIDENT KRUGER.

KRUGER BEGAN THE WAR.

Natal Invaded Just After His Ultimatum Was Cabled.

After a little longer than six months of hard fighting, having 240,000 men in the field—the largest army England ever raised—Great Britain has conquered the two Boer republics of South Africa, which hereafter will be a part of the empire. Presidents Steyn and Kruger are fugitives, and when captured doubtless will be sent to join the intrepid Cronje on the rock of St. Helena. The war has cost England fully £200,000,000 in money; the lives of fully 10,000 men were sacrificed; as many men are yet in hospital suffering from wounds or disease, and 5,000 prisoners of war are waiting at Pretoria to be liberated by Lord Roberts' victorious columns.

In return for her expenditures of blood and money England gets undisputed possession of the diamond fields of the Orange Free State and the gold fields of the Transvaal—the latter the main source of the empire's gold supply—and hereafter those who own the property and pay the taxes in these two countries will have representation in their governing bodies.

As for the Boers, whose brave and determined fight against overwhelming odds commanded the admiration of the world, they lose an identity which never benefited them to any particular extent and an independence which existed only in name. President Kruger's government was in reality an oligarchy; its chief executive was more of a despot than Russia's Czar; the burgher was not a freeman in the American sense; he enjoyed few educational facilities; his thinking was done for him and he cast his ballot as directed. The South African republic was the only nation calling itself civilized that encouraged slavery; women occupied an inferior position; religious liberty in the republic was unknown; only those in power could hope to secure competence, the main body of the people being poor, with no opportunities for bettering their condition.

It was the night of Oct. 10, 1899, that President Kruger cabled his ultimatum to Lord Salisbury, which was, in effect, that war was on between the two coun-CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORS.

Their World's Convention Promises to Be a Great Gathering.

The first world's convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will be held in London, beginning July 10. This convention promises to be the greatest on record; 10,000 Americans, the largest delegation that ever crossed the sea in a body, are expected to be present, and with the Endeavors in the United Kingdom and those from the continent and other foreign countries, the total number will probably reach 60,000, representing 4,000,000 members. The convention is to be held in the Alexandra Palace, an immense structure just out of London proper.

The task of caring for such a great crowd in of no mean proportions and many difficulties have arisen in the path of those who have in charge the arrangement of the details for the reception of the visitors. The principal one of these is to find boarding places for the delegates. Every bed in the hotels, boarding houses and private homes of the Endeavorers has been engaged for the eventful week and still 5,000 of the expected guests would have no place to lay their heads, to say nothing of filling their stomachs. This difficulty can be averted, however, in the minds of the managers. It is planned to lodge these 5,000 homeless ones in the Alexandra Palace. The structure has a great banqueting hall and this large room will be divided off into dormitories, enough of them to hold 12,000 young women. This leaves 3,800 young men to be cared for and for this army the managers planned to erect a mighty encampment under canvas, like any other army would have. One thousand tents are needed, but the job of getting them is a herculean one. All the tentmakers of any consequence in England are engaged in turning out tents for the great army of British soldiers who are at war in South Africa. The managers of the convention were therefore obliged to place their orders with small tentmakers who are also rushed with work and so they hardly know where the tents are coming from, but they do know that none of the guests will be left out in the cold. Another setback for the deleties from that date unless the British Government receded from its contention that it was entitled to exercise the right of suzerainty over the affairs of the South African republic. Within a few hours the English premier replied through the office of the secretary of state for the colonies that the question was too grave a one to be answered without reflection, and the next day the invasion of Natal by the Boers began, three columns pouring in from the Free State and the Transvaal. So far as can be estimated, about 45,000 Boers were put into the field, and as every man was a fine marksman, fighting behind defenses practically impregnable, the burghers had advantages on their side that only numerical superiority, patience and time could overcome. Therefore, the Boers scored many successes, the British suffering several disastrous defeats before they learned the art of war as practiced by the wily mountaineers.

President Kruger, having at last come to a realization of the hopelessness of the situation, left Pretoria, the capital of his republic, for Waterfallhoven after authorizing Burgomaster de Souza to receive the British. The burgomaster and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Gregorowski were at the head of a committee of leading citizens to see to the preservation of order and the protection of life and property.

No figures regarding Boer losses have ever been given out. It being the practice of the burghers to bury their dead as soon as possible and make no report on them gates is the fact that the ocean rates are high this year, due to the fact that England has many of the passenger ships in her transport service and also to the Paris exposition.

The Endeavorers will get a royal welcome in the English metropolis. The lord mayor himself will give a reception to the American contingent and the bishop of London will probably make an address the day before the convention.

Lightning Hits Monument.
Lightning struck the soldiers' monument at Byron, Ill., partly destroying it. It was the first to be erected after the civil war. A terrible electrical storm forced the crowds to retire to Gill's hall to conclude the memorial ceremonies, and while the speaker of the day was calling the roll of the dead there came a terrific crash, accompanied by a sheet of flame, shaking the ground like an earthquake, and the monument was ruined.

Seize Neely's Printing Plant.
United States Marshal Foley of Indianapolis went to Muncie and with a writ of attachment closed the plant of the Neely Printing Company pending a hearing in the United States Court before Judge Baker of Indianapolis. The action is the result of alleged discoveries that the property is subject to the liabilities of Charles F. W. Neely, charged with being a defaulter in the sum of more than $40,000.

Sheldon H. Barrett, for years Foreman-Sells agent, died in Boston.

One More Unfortunate.
"My latest love affair," signed the girl in the pale blue taffeta shirt waist, "was a disappointment."
"Tell me all about it," said the other girl, snuggling up to her. "I'll never breathe a word of it to anybody."
"It was a love of a bonnet. I couldn't afford it!"—Chicago Tribune.

John L. Strain Dead.

John L. Strain died at his home here at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The end came after an illness of six weeks. About two weeks ago he submitted to an operation in a Chicago hospital from which he did not recover. He has been in poor health for several years, still he gave the business of his large store personal supervision. He has been a resident of Harvard since July, 1893, when he opened his present store under the name of Schroeder & Strain, and a year ago he became sole proprietor. By his excellent business ability he built up and increased the patronage of his store until it became one of the leading stores in McHenry county. He was a born merchant and had all of the qualities of a successful business man, which he was. He leave a wife and six children, four sons and two daughters, to mourn his death. Besides this he has brothers and sisters. Mr. Strain was forty-two years of age. The interment will be in the Catholic cemetery at Richmond—Harvard Herald.

Mr. Strain was well known here and at Wilmet, having conducted a store at the latter place several years.

To Seek Use of Highways.

The Waukegan, Fox Lake & Western Electric railway company propose to have its line largely upon city and country highways, if the requisite permission can be secured. Application will be made next week to the county board of supervisors for right-of-way. The line as now projected runs west on Washington street from the business center to Dillenbeck's corner, thence north to the Guerne road, in which it runs west to the O'Plain river. From there to Druce's lake it will have a private right-of-way. From Druce's lake it will run north in the road to J. H. Bonner's, then cut across lots to the Lake Villa and Fox lake road, along which it proposes to proceed to Fox Lake. It will be pre-eminently a lake line; starting near Lake Michigan, it goes near Gage's lake, near Druce's, Third, Fourth, Sand, Crooked, Deep, Cedar and Fox lakes. The line as thus far planned is 25 miles long.

W. C. T. U. Fifth Annual Convention.

The fifth annual convention of Lake County Women's Christian Temperance Unions will be held in Guerne Christian church, Thursday, June 14, from 9 a. m. through the day and evening. The forenoon will be given to reports of officers, superintendents and the local unions and a consecration service. After the basket lunch, with which the Guerne people will serve tea and coffee, comes the election of officers and superintendents for the coming year; a paper upon "Loyalty" by Mrs. Letta Wert; "Five Years of Progress," followed by discussions and a talk by Mrs. Louise L. Rounds; also a question box and miscellaneous business, the day will be full of good things. The voting convention will consist of local presidents 13; delegates, 8 from each union, 39; superintendents 12; county officers 5—67 in all, by far the largest convention we have ever had. But we are not selfish, the latch string is out to every person inclined to come. A hearty welcome will be given. If the church should prove too small there is a large hall near by. Mrs. Rounds will deliver an address in the evening and special music is being prepared.

Juniors Banquet the Seniors.

In response to neat invitations sent out by the juniors, the two classes gathered at the home of Mayor Turner last Thursday evening and spent the evening in a very delightful manner. The teachers and a few others were also present. Soon after eight o'clock the president of the junior class, 'Gertie Smart, called the classes to order and welcomed the guests with the following well chosen address:

"Class of 1900, our seniors, we the juniors welcome you to this reception we have prepared for you. We feel it but fitting and right that we should do something to show our appreciation of you and the work that has enabled you to occupy this position tonight. We hope the evening will be a pleasure and a pleasant reminder of the ties that bind us together as schoolmates. To Mr. Manley, our friend, teacher and helper, during this whole year, also the other teachers, we extend a most cordial welcome. Then again for the class of 1901 I bid you all a kindly welcome."

Edna Hoyt, in behalf of the senior class, responded as follows:

"As a representative of the class of 1900, I stand before you tonight with a feeling of gratitude and regret. As a class we wish to extend to you our sincere thanks for the delightful banquet which you have prepared in our honor. It will always be one of the most pleasant remembrances to think of this kindness shown us by our juniors. It is a law of nature that there is always some sunshine and some shadow, and the past school year has not been an exception. Although there has been some feelings of strife between the two classes, let us now rejoice that they never terminated in any serious results, and in the years to come let us forget all the petty quarrels and think only of the pleasant hours we have spent together. Kind juniors, as the class of 1900 goes from school life into life's school, we desire that your kindest thoughts and wishes attend us and that you will ever think of us with love and respect as we shall think of you. And to our principal, Mr. Manley, we desire to give our heartfelt thanks to show our appreciation for the efforts which he has put forth in order that we might attain the honors which we do here tonight. And to the other teachers we wish to show our gratitude for the interest they have taken and the encouragement they have given during this, our last year in the Antioch high school. Again, juniors, accept the thanks and well-wishes of the seniors of 1900."

A short but interesting program followed this response, and then games were taken up and were continued until refreshments were bountifully served and enjoyed by all, then more games and finally the time to say good night came when Harvey Mann took the floor and presented the following farewell address:

"To me it has been appointed to say to the class of 1900 words of farewell as they leave school and its consequent associations. Many in the two classes present this evening have been schoolmates and at times classmates from our earliest school days. The time has come when you are to leave us and enter upon larger fields of labor and form new friends and new associations. We bid you a hearty God-speed in all your undertakings. While you will be missed from your accustomed places in the schoolroom, we shall often think of the pleasant days spent together and linger long in our memories of the class of 1900, you will no longer be a part of us in the schoolroom, but we trust that the good will and friendship that now exists between us will wax stronger as the years pass. I shall not say to you farewell, for in all probability we shall often meet and mingle in the walks of life, but rather let me say that other word more fitting to the occasion. To others we may say farewell, but to you let the word be a fond good bye. Good bye and good luck to you and your intentions to make your career in life a credit to our school and to yourselves."

Those who attended the entertainment last Friday evening surely have no cause to regret it. Prof. Carney is a master hand at character portraiture and story telling. The proceeds of the entertainment lacked a little of meeting the expenses, leaving nothing for the graduating expenses. It will be necessary to charge an admission of 15c to those not holding tickets. Let everyone interested in the school come and help to make this closing work of the school year a success, and thereby encourage the pupils to look forward to these closing exercises as something worth striving for.

The Way of the World.

A duck which had laid several dozen eggs during the season, says the Rural New Yorker, complained that while her working record was better than the hen's, the latter had books and poems written in her honor, while no one had a word of praise for the duck. A wise old rooster standing by said: "You lay an egg and then waddle off without saying a word, while that sister of mine never lays one without letting everyone in the neighborhood know about it. If you want to cut any ice around here, you must advertise."

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. Hamlin Garland's most recent work is a vigorous story of western life, entitled The Eagle's Heart. In this brilliant story he draws a remarkable strong picture of the adventurous life in cowtowns and mining settlements, and shows every phase of the aggressive existence of miner, plainsman and cowboy. An absorbing love story is skillfully woven into the fabric of peril and adventure. The Eagle's Heart, superbly illustrated by Mr. Harrison Fisher, will begin in the Saturday Evening Post for June 16, and run through the summer numbers of the magazine.

Netty Green was recently induced to talk to a writer for the June Ladies' Home Journal of her business methods that have won her sixty millions of dollars or more. The secret of her success is worth knowing: "I don't believe in speculation as a rule," she says, "and I don't speculate as much as people think. When offered so many shares of stock at so much I buy one share and then send out to see what it will bring. If it's a good advance I buy the rest. If not, I don't. This was my plan when I used to deal in horses. I would get a day's option on a horse, and see what it would bring before buying it. I attribute my success chiefly to the rule of always buying when every one wants to sell, and selling when every one wants to buy. There's a price on everything I have. When that price is offered I sell. I never buy anything just to hold on to it. Net much! And I try to steer clear of Wall street. Any one who hasn't a whole fortune to back his deals had better do the same. I do everything with all my mind. If there is a lawsuit on hand I go into every detail of it with my lawyer. It's the same with everything else."

For the Good of Women.

No one who listens to the reasons given by the superior class for the continuance of any kind of subjection can fail to be impressed with the noble disinterestedness of mankind. When the subjection of persons of African descent was to be maintained, the good of those persons was always the main object. When it was the fashion to beat children, to regard them as little animals who had no rights, it was always for their good that they were treated with severity, and never on account of the bad temper of their parents. Hence, when it is proposed to give the women of this country equality of political rights, it is not surprising to find that the reasons on which the continuance of the inferiority of women is urged, are drawn almost entirely from a tender consideration of their own good. The anxiety felt lest they should thereby deteriorate, would be an honor to human nature were it not an historical fact that the same sweet solicitude has been put as a barrier against every progress which women have made since civilization began. If suffrage by a right, if it be true that no man has a right to govern any other man except to the extent that the other man has a right to govern him, then there can be no discussion of the question of woman's suffrage. No reason on earth can be given by those who claim suffrage as a right of manhood which does not make it a right of womanhood also. If the suffrage is to be given man to protect him in his life, liberty and property, the same reasons urge that it be given to woman, for she has the same life, liberty and property to protect. If it be urged that her interests are so bound up in those of man that they are sure to be protected, the answer is that the same argument was urged as to the merging in the husband of the wife's right of property, and was pronounced by the judgment of mankind fallacious in practice and in principle. If the natures of men and women are so alike that for this reason no harm is done by suppressing women, what harm can be done by elevating them to equality? If the natures are different, what right can there be in refusing representation to those who might lack juster views about many social and political questions?

It is sometimes asserted that women now have a greater influence in politics through their husbands and brothers. This is undoubtedly true. But that is just the kind of influence which is not wholesome for the community, for it is influence unaccompanied by responsibility. People are always ready to recommend to others what they would not do themselves.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, In., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery which wholly cured me. Hundreds have used it on my advice and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at all drug stores.

DO YOU GET UP

WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and one dollar bottles are sold by all good druggists.

Butterfly Parasols.

One simply can't find anything more delicate and fetching than the butterfly parasol. A beauty which a lucky belle will carry is of silk with four exquisite butterflies embroidered on every other edge. And such butterfly-creatures, embroidered in more pastel tints than one dreamed existed, and seemingly ready to take flight at the faintest move. But they can't. They must continue to adorn Beauty's sunshade.

Ayling Brothers Ink.

The News office has just received a new stock of Ayling Brothers Jet Black Ink, non-corrosive and absolutely chemical proof. Try a bottle and if you don't agree with us in saying that it is the best ink you ever used we will cheerfully refund your money. Only 5 cents per bottle. 111f is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think. It is not neutral or colorless, constantly weighing in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word. It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents. Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West. For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public. Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West. It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their own opinions. While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column. Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country. It is the "Centinel" daily printed in the West.

An Unbreakable Side Corset

Made with extra stays reinforcing side steels, yet so constructed as to not impair flexibility of corset. This feature will be appreciated by those who are troubled with corsets breaking, as usually the unbreakable corsets are so rigid as to be uncomfortable to the wearer and injurious to health. These two great obstacles are overcome with this corset.

ALL P.N. CORSETS HAVE CORK PROTECTED CLASPS

CORK PROTECTED CLASPS which are in every pair of P.N. CORSETS, prevent rust spots in the undergarments and being soft and pliable are agreeable to the wearer.

The cottagers have received the morning papers daily since June 1st. The papers are delivered by George Tweed, who gets around early enough to be home in time to go to school. This speaks well of George's abilities as a hustler.

The first race of the Fox Lake Yacht club took place last Saturday. The day was an ideal one for racing there being a heavy wind blowing from the north-east. The signal to start was given shortly before three o'clock and two minutes later the Louise crossed the line and secured a good start. The boats were well handled but the Louise maintained its advantage and crossed the finish line an hour and sixteen minutes after the start. Fourteen minutes later the Patricia finished, closely followed by the Bald Eagle and the Skip. The Bald Eagle capsize a hundred feet from the finish. Mr. Lyford's Flying Fox was the only class B boat to show up, so it covered the course alone. The Louise was sailed by Messrs. Ford, Boyden, Hansell and Lowry. The Patricia was sailed by Miss Marion Tooker, Messrs. Deering, Spencer and James Gardner. Miss Tooker deserves a great deal of credit sailing against experienced men. The Skip was sailed by Messrs. Cameron Bros., Fletcher and Larson. The Bald Eagle had Messrs. Pfleger, Kimbark and Harris on board and should have had even so much more weight. The Flying Fox was sailed by Messrs. Lyford and crew. There will be another race next Saturday.

THE BIBLE OF THE BODY.

Next in importance to a Bible in the home is a thoroughly reliable and easily understood doctor book. With such a book for ready reference, parents can often cure the ordinary family ailments without the expense of consulting a local physician.

The most complete, the simplest and best illustrated book of the kind is the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, written by that famous and successful Buffalo, N. Y., physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, who has been many years and is to-day treating and curing the afflicted in all parts of the earth. This book has been termed the "Bible of the Body," because it is to the body of physical man what the Bible is to the soul or spiritual man, shedding light and revealing truth. It tells people in every day language how diseases are developed, what the symptoms are and how they can be cured. Its pictures show the appearance of all organs, muscles, and nerves of men and women. It treats upon every phase and complication of disease. The information in this book has been gathered by Dr. Pierce in his world-wide practice, and is founded upon actual experience—not upon theory. More than 1,000,000 American homes contain copies of this book. Formerly it sold for $1.50 a copy. Now it is 75c. Send 25 one-cent stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., to pay the cost of mailing only, and he will send you a copy of this 1000-page doctor book, bound in paper-covers. If you prefer a cloth-bound copy, send 50 stamps.

Mrs. R. F. Monfort, of Lebanon, Warren Co., Ohio, writes: "I drop you a line to let you know I have received the Medical Adviser. I think it a great prize to get so fine a book for so small a sum. I cryed out five dollars bill could not tempt me to part with it, so you see I am glad to have it. I have placed it over my husband and to me. That book is worth five dollars to you."

Peculiar Coincidence.

A very peculiar coincidence, to say the least, is noted in the report of the deaths of three members of Modern Woodman Camp No. 2566, Waukegan, Kas., which occurred on the 5th inst. The men were Frank E. Cox, Sherman B. Cox, and Wm. J. Whitlow, and their certificates of membership in the Woodmen were respectively numbered 101,524, 101,525 and 101,532, in the amounts, respectively, of $1,000, $2,000 and $1,000. All three joined the Woodmen society at the same time, their certificates issuing on November 20, 1894, making their duration in the society 5 years, 5 months and 15 days. At the time of becoming members all three made their certificates payable to "mother." Later all three got married, and changed the certificates from "mother" to "wife." According to the report of their deaths received at the head office of the society in Rock Island, Ill., the men were out fishing in Waukegan creek on the 5th of May. The boat upset and all three were drowned. To round up the incident all three were buried at the same time from the same church.

CENSUS ARMY MOVES.

ENUMERATORS ARE COUNTING UNCLE SAM'S MILLIONS.

Experts Say Results Will Prove That This Is the Greatest of Civilized Nations—Complete Figures Are Due December 1.

The 52,000 census enumerators are making their rounds. Two hundred and ninety-seven supervisors have them in charge. In addition to the staff at headquarters in Washington, four chief inspectors are out on the road and more than 2,000 special agents are also prepared to jump into their designated fields of inquiry. Fifty-five thousand men to gather information about 75,000,000. It looks like a big army, and it is bigger than any army the Boers have had in the field in South Africa. But this is a great country.

The end of the century census, the twelfth which Uncle Sam has taken, is expected to show that the United States is today the greatest, the most populous, the richest, the most prosperous and the most rapidly growing modern nation. The experts have already figured out that the total population will leap from 62,000,000 in 1880 to between 75,000,000 and 70,000,000 in 1900.

Minhall, the English statistician, last fall figured the population of the United States June 1, this year, at 77,800,000. The treasury experts made it still higher. Census Director Merriam has estimated 73,000,000 or 74,000,000, but for obvious reasons he is conservative. There are experts here who are willing to wager that the grand total, when finally wound up, will not be over 70,000,000 nor under 75,000,000. It will beat the civilized world. Germany has only two-thirds as many people, France and Great Britain only a little over half as many. Russia and China have more, but their hordes are not to be reckoned in the category of fully civilized modern peoples.

Director Merriam expects to be able to announce the population of many American cities within the month. Washington will come first and rapidly thereafter New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and all the large cities.

The census experts give a most interesting prediction. It is that this census will show the United States to have a larger number of cities with a population exceeding 100,000 than any other nation. We shall show about forty such municipalities, and our nearest rival, it is believed, is India. In this competition China is not counted, as the population of Chinese cities is largely a matter of guessing, and they are mere collections of villages at best. The experts have also figured out that the center of population in the United States has now traveled about sixty miles west of Columbus, Ind., and is now not far from the Illinois line. "Westward the star of empire."

In increase of wealth the great West is expected to astonish the East. As a new apportionment of the United States for Congress and the electoral college is to be made next winter upon the basis of this census, as required by the constitution, the growth of population in the West will speedily bring increase of political power. Before Dec. 1 Director Merriam expects to announce the total population of the United States so that Congress may upon its reassembling at once proceed to make the new apportionment required by the constitution. The total cost of the census is estimated at from $15,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Just a hundred years ago Virginia was the first State of the Union, with a population of 880,000. This year it will fall back to about twentieth place. At the beginning of the century Massachusetts was good third in the list. Ten years ago it was sixth. In this census it is pretty sure to be outstripped by Texas, Indiana, Michigan and Iowa.

The special agents who are to gather information as to American manufacturing industries are at work. During the next three months they will finish their tasks. On this score the results are likely to be amazing. This feature of the census more than any other will show the greatness of the United States.

SURVIVORS OF THE CIVIL WAR.

Evans Estimates that Union Veterans Number 925,000.

Veterans of the civil war are dying off at the rate of about 3 1/3 per cent per annum. Commissioner of Pensions Evans estimates that there are about 925,000 survivors of the civil war. Of this number there were on the pension rolls last year 742,407. During the year 24,787 pensioned veterans died. This number is slightly more than 3 1/3 per cent. Assuming that the death rate among those not pensioned is the same as among the pensioners, the total number of veterans who died during the year would be about 80,855.

Brief News Items.

Mayor of Havana has issued an order prohibiting the playing of Spanish airs in public.

A second volume of the report of the first Philippine commission gives a proclamation of Aguilondo asking the Filipinos for a Christmas present.

Representative Shaffroth of Colorado is looking after the preservation of a large number of monuments and cliff dwellings which are the work of prehistoric man in Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.

The Senate on Tuesday added to the sundry civil appropriation bill an amendment appropriating $5,000,000 for the Louisiana purchase exposition, to be held in St. Louis in 1903, on condition that $10,000,000 in addition be raised by the exposition authorities. The amendment was adopted without debate and without division. Because an amendment offered by him subsequently was stricken out on a point of order, Mr. Gallinger (N-H) moved to reconsider the St. Louis fair amendment, and that motion now is pending. Mr. Bacon (Ga.) addressed the Senate at length on the latter resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers, after which the resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations by a vote of 40 to 29. Mr. Fairbanks (Ind.) endeavored to secure consideration of the bill providing for the extradition of criminals from the United States to Cuba, but Mr. Allison declined to lay aside the appropriation bill for that purpose. The House, by a vote of 107 to 124, refused to accept the Senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill relating to armor plate, and adopted a modified proposition authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to secure armor by contract, and if he cannot purchase it at what he deems a reasonable price, he is instructed to purchase a site and erect a factory for the manufacture of armor plate, appropriating the sum of $4,000,000 for this purpose. With regard to ocean and lake surveys, the House refused any appropriation for surveys by the navy, and tied up the conference with instructions. It also refused to concur in the Senate amendment to abolish the two years' sea cruise for naval cadets. With the above action the naval bill was sent back to conference. The conference report on the other items having been agreed to. The conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill, agreeing on all items except the Senate amendment appropriating $225,000 for pneumatic tube service, was adopted, and the House then concurred in the excepted amendment.

Ranks as One of the Greatest Achievements of President McKinley's Administration.

In the case of the Kansas Pacific indebtedness, by decree of the court an installment price on the sale of the stock was fixed at a sum which would be paid to the Government of $400,000. The reorganization committee in conference with the Government declared its purpose of making no higher bid than that fixed by the decree of the court, so that the Government was confronted with the danger of receiving for its total lien over $400,000 in principal and interest, on a sum of $2,500,000. Believing the interest of the Government required that an effort should be made to obtain a larger sum, and the Government having the right to redeem the incumbrance upon the property, which was prior to the lien of the mortgage, they, by paying the Government the sum lawfully due thereout out of the Treasury of the United States, the President was authorized to pay the interest.

The Boer Envoys.
Secretary Hay quickly made it clear to the Boer envoys that the administration could not do more than it already has done to bring about peace in South Africa. The United States Government acted promptly when an opportunity offered, through the appeal made to the representatives of the van

Capt. Streeter claims to own the land, which, were the title clear, would be worth between thirty and fifty million dollars. In 1885 Capt. The spot was noted down on the maps and the doughy navigator laid claim to the land and declared

while handling some heavy boxes.
The doctor I call on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm.
I tried it, and one-half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recom-

Duration of Modern Sieges.

The following list gives a comparson of the duration of some modern sieges to that of Ladysmith: Khartoun, 341 days; Sebastopol, 327 days;
Paris, 167 days; Kimberley, 123 days;
Ladysmith, 118 days; Plevna, 94 days;
Lucknow, 88 days; Cawnpore, 21 days.
In olden times sieges lasted much longer. That of Azoth, according to Herodotus, continued for twenty-nine years, and the siege of Troy occupied ten years.

SPRINGS AND SPRINGS.
The sphinx measures sixty-six feet from the excavated bottom of its base to the top of the figure. The length of each ear of the sphinx is four and one-half feet, its mouth seven and one-half feet wide, and its face fourteen feet broad. A person standing on the top of its ear can not reach to the top of its head. The sphinx is certainly large enough, but photographs showing it in varying sizes, even towering above the highest pyramid, is a mere trick of the camera.

The Chinese ask "how is your liver?"
instead of "how do you do?" for when the liver is active the health is good. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are famous little pills for the liver and bowels. Wm. T. Hill.
